

Executive Summary PowerCo

A blanket discount is not the answer

- Rolling it out across the base would cost €553k to protect €324k; customer outreach is needed to find what actually drives churn

Churn is high in the SME division

- Nearly 10% of ~15k customers leave within three months, worth €324k in annual margin

Price sensitivity is not the primary driver

- Margin and consumption rank highest; leavers and loyal customers pay virtually the same price today

Churn risk can be measured and predicted

- The 640 highest-risk customers can be identified, making a small targeted pilot worth testing
